A collective was established in Bogdanci, Macedonia, in 1949. The Chairman of this collective was a certain Georgi Lazarov, a former Partisan. During 1949 and 1950 collective members erected office buildings and a stable. Another stable for cattle was in the process of construction at Bogdanci By the end of 1950 the collective had 2,500 sheep, 100 head of beef cattle, 60 dairy cattle and 100 horses, In May 1951 the stock had decreased to 1,800 sheep, 100 head of beef cattle, 60 dairy cattle and 70 horses. This decrease was ascribed to deaths and slaughtering. Each working member of the collective received 20 kilograms of grain per month, each child received 6 kilograms of grain per month and each aged person was allotted ten kilograms per month. The collective sold cheese at the price of 200 dinars per kilogram, and milk at 30 dinars

2. Prior to World Var II, a number of families from Montenegro and Serbia settled in Bogorodica, a village in the Djevdjelija district of Macedonia. later, when the Bulgarians occupied this area, these settlers of Montenegrin and Serbian origin were interned in a concentration camp near Petrovo. In 1951 ten of these interned families were released and were permitted to 25X1X return to Bogodorica, where their homes were restored to them. 1 The majority
